DISGUSTED.

Efforts of Central Labor Union
to Unite All in One Body Ineffective.

United Trades Assembly Again
Repudiates Action of Its Representatives.

Meeting Addressed by George Thobe and M. Raphael of Brooklyn.

VICE PRESIDENT MARTIN PRESIDED

The largest gathering of representative trades unionists witnessed in Louisville for some time past assembled with the Central Labor Union at Beck's

PROF. MARRINER.
Secretary Executive Committee.

Hall last Sunday afternoon, all expecting that the differences which have existed for the past eighteen months between that body and the seceders composing the United Trades and Labor Assembly were obliterated and the time had again come when all would unite forces and fight for organized labor. For the past six months the two bodies have been in conference for the purpose of uniting.

The Central Labor Union during that time made many concessions, and the ultimatum submitted at its last meeting to the representatives of the other organization was accepted by them in every way satisfactory, they agreeing to disband and return to the only regular and legal central body.

The hopes of the sixty delegates and the many spectators present were not to be realized, however. Secretary Zeno Young had received a communication from Herman Christen during the preceding week notifying the Central Labor Union that the agreement reached had been ratified by the United Trades and Labor Assembly at its meeting on the Sunday previous. This was all that was necessary to bring to an end the long existing trouble. But a rider was attached making it a condition that two individuals, who have been the cause of much dissension and injury to the labor movement, should be accepted as honorary members. Nothing could have more plainly revealed the insincerity of the small coterie composing the alleged United Trades and Labor Assembly.

Expressions of surprise and disgust were heard on all sides and prompt and decisive action was taken. Resolutions were adopted setting forth the position of the Central Labor Union and calling for the appointment of a committee of three to notify the United Trades and Labor Assembly that, as it had repudiated the action of its own representatives and failed to carry out the agreement which they had ratified, all negotiations were thereby closed and further recognition would not be given that body or its committee.

Recently several of the unions attached thereto have withdrawn, until now only about six remain. Some of the former will again affiliate with the regular organization, among them the salesmen and tobacco workers. Herman Christen stated that he was opposed to the action of his body, as was also Louis Kiefer, in attempting to foist upon the Central Labor Union the two obnoxious men referred to, who have been repeatedly turned down during the last year. Their only course now open the unions in revolt is to withdraw and elect delegates, who will all be given a cordial reception. This incident closed, all energies will now be directed to the proper celebration of Labor Day, for which active preparations are in progress.

Vice President James Martin presided, President Fuchs being absent, and his rulings gave general satisfaction. Four new organizations were added to the roster and credentials accepted and the following delegates seated.

Bartenders' League—Harry Sheldon.
Street Railway Employees—S. L. Denton.

Sign Painters—Joe Schenck, Harry Bartup, J. N. Rutli.
Pattern Makers' Association—Warrick Sullivan, Augustus Kline, Thomas Aulesbrook.

International Association of Machinists—George Ewald, Harry Smith.
Marine Firemen—Frazee Davee, Dempsey Curry, William Anderson.

Communications were received from the Chicago Building Trades Council, the Textile Workers of New York, and the Coopers' Union of Kansas City, which the delegates were instructed to report to their unions. The Watch Workers' Union asks all men to promote the interests of the Elgin watch, which is union made. Other communications called attention to the boycott on the Chicago News and Record and the Swift Packing Company.

The Grievance Committee reported its failure to induce Slaughter, the Market street tailor, who had discharged his union employees, to recognize the Journeymen Tailors' Union. His name was placed upon the unfair list and delegates instructed to notify their organizations of the action taken. His only excuse was that his business for the season was over. The grievances of the brewers were reported satisfactorily settled.

Michael Raphael, of Brooklyn, who is visiting the large cities in the interest of the lockout cigar-makers of New York, made an eloquent appeal for them. He called attention to the fact that child labor was on the increase, and that the wages had been so decreased that the non-unionists could stand it no longer, few of them averaging as much as $5 per week. Their ranks are still unbroken, and despite Freeman's injunction and the failure of the powers that be to enforce the labor laws they were as steadfast as on the first day of the lock-out three months ago. He urged all to take interest in this fight against unionism, after which a resolution was adopted calling upon the unions represented in the central body to render financial aid to help feed those who are struggling for existence.

George Thobe, of Covington, who was in the city as the guest of the Wood Carvers' Union, also made a ringing speech, urging a closing of the ranks and telling of the great benefits his fellow-workmen had received since the formation of their organization, which is constantly growing. He was also authorized to say that the Louisville union would send delegates to the central body. Mr. Thobe is a fluent and forcible speaker and his remarks were warmly applauded.

Pat Garvey and Gus Heicken were also present and spoke for the label of the newly formed Box Makers' Union. They were given close attention and made a most favorable impression. These young men are energetic and ere long will become prominent in local labor circles.

Chairman Martin appointed the following members to serve on the Labor Day Committee: Henry Smith, John Sales, W. Ruth, Mark Williams, A. Kline, Edward McCrory, David O'Gorman, Gus Ditsch, William Jacobs, Chas. Taylor and James Cecil.

Other business of a routine character was transacted, after which the meeting adjourned for one month, all satisfied with the day's work.

George Rautenbusch, the able representative of the barbers, tendered his resignation as Financial Secretary, which the delegates refused to accept.

The Organization Committee was ordered to assist in organizing the laundry employees of the city.

RECENT DEATHS.

Martin Lally, a well known old resident, died Thursday afternoon at his home on Lytle street. His funeral takes place this morning.

The funeral of William Doran took place from St. Patrick's church last Sunday morning, and the large attendance showed the high esteem in which he was held. His remains were interred in St. Louis cemetery.

One of the largest funerals seen for some time past at the Church of Our Lady was that of little Edwin Silberg, which took place Monday morning. He was one of the brightest boys in Portland, and his unexpected death was a sad bereavement to his parents, who have the sympathy of a host of friends.

Mary Blair died Tuesday at the home of her mother, Mrs. Sallie Blair, 726 West St. Catherine street, just as she was budding into womanhood, being in her seventeenth year, and was the comfort of her widowed mother. Her funeral took place from the Dominican church Thursday morning, and many sorrowing friends attended the last rites over her earthly remains.

Warrick McGuire, the well known traveling salesman, died Tuesday evening at his home on High avenue. For many years he was a leading hatter of this city, and few men were more popular or had more friends, all of whom were shocked when it was announced that he had succumbed to heart disease. The deceased was fifty years of age, and leaves a widow to mourn his loss. His funeral took place Thursday afternoon.

Among this week's deaths none are more regretted than that of Frank Cooney, who died Wednesday evening at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Mary Deely, 1020 West Oak street. The deceased was well known in Indianapolis, Cincinnati and Cleveland, and had many warm friends in this city. His funeral took place from St. Louis Bertrand's church yesterday morning. He had lived the good life and was in his sixty-sixth year. Peace to his ashes.

The funeral of Mrs. Anna Menne, who died Saturday evening from an attack of pneumonia, took place Tuesday morning from St. Martin's church with solemn requiem mass. She had lived here since 1832, and was widely known for her many charitable deeds and Christian virtues. Mrs. Menne is survived by her only son, Frank Menne, President of the Menne Candy Company. She was one of the oldest members of St. Martin's church, which will keenly feel her loss. The services were largely attended by members of that and other congregations.

Just as the evening was approaching last Monday the soul of Annie Corinne McCrory, the beloved wife of William King, departed from this earthly sphere and another happy home was left in gloom. The deceased, who was only in her twenty-first year, was a lovable woman and devoted wife, just entering upon the happiness of life, and her death was a sad and unexpected blow to her husband and many friends. Her funeral took place Wednesday morning from St. Charles' church, Rev. Father Raffo officiating at the solemn requiem mass and preaching a feeling sermon. Words fail to express the sympathy that is felt for Mr. King in his irreparable loss. May the earth rest lightly upon her.

FEDERATION.

Growing Sentiment in Its Favor
Among Louisville Catholic Societies.

Will Shun Politics But Combat
Misrepresentation and Proscription.

Many Organizations Will Select
Their Delegates Next Week.

THEY WILL MEET AT SATOLLI HALL

The federation of Catholic societies mentioned in these columns last week meets with general favor, and during the next few days many societies will elect

CAPT. GEO. C. NORTON.
Chairman Reception Committee.

representatives to the meeting to be held at Satolli Hall, Second street, on Sunday afternoon, June 10.

The Catholic societies of Cincinnati have effected a local union, and their platform might well be adopted here. It is as follows:

To work for the general welfare of Catholic interests apart from the special object of each organization—leaving each society with its own government and officers, but establishing a central board for the purpose of better carrying out the principles of fraternity and fellowship advocated by all.

To vindicate the rights of Catholics as citizens.

To support the Catholic press and diffuse Catholic literature.

To defend Catholic principles and protest against measures antagonizing them.

Its promoters here do not contemplate anything in the nature of a political party nor the segregation of our people from the general life of the community in which their lot is cast, but the reverse. Its chief purpose will be to combat the obstinate misrepresentation and proscription to which Catholics of all nationalities have been subjected.

With such a union of forces Louisville could also soon have such a memorial building as has been suggested by Dr. Fowler and other prominent citizens.

FOLLOWS HER HUSBAND

Mrs. Mary Keaney's Death
Causes Inexpressible Sorrow.

The announcement of the death of Mrs. Mary Keaney last Sunday morning, which occurred at St. Joseph's Infirmary after a brief illness, caused inexpressible sorrow to her wide circle of friends and acquaintances. She was the widow of the late Thomas Keaney, who died during the past year, and was a woman admired for her many Christian virtues. For many years she had been a devout member of St. Paul's church, from which her funeral took place Tuesday morning with solemn requiem mass, Rev. Father York conducting the impressive services. Dr. John M. Keaney, the well known physician, is a son of the deceased, and many were the expressions of sympathy heard for him in the loss of his saintly mother. Five other children survive her. They are Thomas Keaney, Superintendent of the Adas Israel cemetery, Mrs. Ben Beckmann, Misses Mayme, Rita and Nellie Keaney. The church was crowded with those who came to show the high esteem in which she was held, and a large concourse accompanied the remains to St. Louis cemetery, where the interment took place. The floral offerings were many and beautiful and literally covered the grave. May the earth rest lightly upon her.

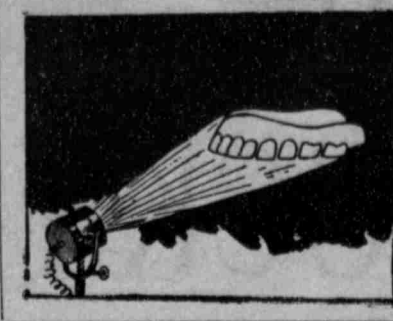

MACKIN COUNCIL OUTING.

Mackin Council's annual outing at Fern Grove on Monday, June 22, should be the banner one in the history of that popular West End organization. Large numbers of tickets have been disposed of, and it may require the three boats to convey the crowd. The Council will serve an excellent dinner, which will be presided over by pretty young ladies. Dancing, boating, base ball, foot races and other amusements have been arranged for, and all who participate will have a splendid time.
